

AWT Young Professionals Webinar: Keys To Documentation and Communication In Our Industry

Providing service and water systems testing is vitally important in the water treatment industry. Did you know that what you do with that information after your service visit is just as important as the service itself? Without proper documentation and communication, your service and testing could lose its impact. Join us for a webinar with Matt Weir, CWT, Guardian CSC, to learn how to properly document your service visits and effectively communicate with your customers. It will help keep you customer in-the-know and keep you out of the hot-seat.
