

AWT Young Professionals Webinar: Understanding the Value of Insurance in Water Treatment

As the water treatment industry continues to grow and develop, those in this business are faced with an ever-changing landscape in which to work. Customer demands, legal and regulatory challenges, and pure competition are just some of the areas requiring careful attention. There is also no doubt that younger professionals entering into this industry will be required to learn and take on much of this responsibility. As such, a sound understanding of risk and insurance solutions is vital for this new generation of water treatment professionals to be successful. Join Mike Highum, McGowan Insurance Group, as we review those specific insurance solutions and the risk management strategies used to ensure profitable growth.
